An Appreciation.

The recent exhibition of pictures at Mr. Lytton Buehler's studio was noticed in this paper last week. We trust that the impression of these paintings is still fresh enough for special reference now; and that the lapse of time between the exhibition and this appreciation is short enough to still keep within the bounds of propriety an estimate of Mr. Buehler's work.

An exhibition of eighteen pictures by one artist is enough to show the character of his work. That Mr. Buehler is not given to one thing was perfectly apparent in the variety of his subjects. He is not uniformly happy, nor is he always even, but he is always interesting, and his work is always marked by individuality. One may deplore the absence of the conventional manner if he is given to look for traditions in painting. Manner there is, emphatically—indeed something approaching style—but strange and exotic. It is only fair to say that this strangeness disappears with increased familiarity. Yet never entirely; for this very downright and frank way of putting forth things to our eyes in a new way is a constant challenge to our attention. A singular directness characterizes everything that comes from his brush. We feel it especially in the portraits; it is not absent in the lovely and charming "Venice" and even in the subject of "May the Thirtieth" it is not less emphatically present. And directness is something of consequence in these days when one recalls either the Gift of $25,000 for College.

In the short space of twelve months it has been clearly and happily demonstrated that Dr. William Anthony Granville, as president of Gettysburg College, is the right man in the right place. He has not only made good as the executive head of the institution in having the student body in enthusiastic harmony with the administration but he has also united and harmonized all influences for the good of the institution. He has not only done all this but is making good, in fact has made good from the financial point of view, giving brightest promises of a future in which he will make good in larger measure in the building of the Greater Gettysburg.

Dr. Granville within twelve months has secured more financial help than the college has obtained in a similar period at any time in its history. Starting with the Blough Professorship of Civil Engineering $15,000 was added to the college assets. By commencement $30,000 was in sight. Then came the offer of the Rockefeller Foundation of $50,000 if $150,000 was raised. By opening of college $5,000 more was added to previous donations. Great encouragement was given last week when $25,000 more was added, making a grand total of $110,000 in sight in the first year of Dr. Granville's administration.

This last gift of $25,000 to Gettysburg College was from the wife and children of the late P. H. Glatfelter of Spring Grove, Pa., as a memorial to P. H. Glatfelter.

Mr. Glatfelter was a trustee of the college for many years before his death and a very liberal supporter of the college, being the largest single contributor towards the building of our magnificent Reclamation Hall. He established the great paper mills at Spring Grove now known as the P. H. Glatfelter Paper Company and was the moving spirit in several other highly successful business enterprises, notable among which is the York Manufacturing Co., of York, Pa., known all over the country for their refrigerating machinery. Mr. Glatfelter was not only a very highly successful business man, he was deeply interested in religious, educational and social questions. Being a philanthropist of the highest type he gave liberally both of his time and money to a wide range of benevolent objects.

The campaign of Dr. Granville for money for Gettysburg College can scarcely be said to have been started. Plans have been made, friends have been sought, but the active and thorough canvas for money remains yet to be done and with the fine beginning already made the campaign will be conducted with high hopes and prospects.

Bold Hold-up.

A bold attempt to hold up P. Franklin Miller the 14 year old son of P. Emory Miller, of Straban township was made about 1.30 o'clock on Sunday, Nov. 5 at a lonely spot on the road leading from New Chester to New Oxford at point known as Swift Run. The young man was riding his bicycle and hearing a noise in the bush to his right saw a man step into the road, who immediately called to him to halt. Seeing a revolver in the man's hand instead of obeying the command young Miller increased his speed when the highwayman called again to him to halt threatening to shoot him. In a short time the young man had gotten some distance away from the highwayman, who for some reason did not fulfill his threat to shoot. The man was apparently middle-aged, wore a mustache, had on an old slouch hat, pulled down over his head somewhat concealing his features.

Murder by an Insane Man.

G. Cuthbert Williams of York, son of Snyser Williams, a prominent attorney of York, and a grandson of the late Edward Hersh of York, a native of this county, was shot and killed by Nathan C. Butterfield at St. Johnsbury, Vt. The murderer is believed to have been unbalanced mentally at the time.

Both men worked at the United States fish hatchery where Butterfield was foreman and Williams a culturist. Following the death of Butterfield's 21-year old daughter at Milford last month, it was noticed that Butterfield was morose and quick of temper.

Just before noon today Butterfield went to the hatchery and found Williams at work alone in the stable. Investigation afterward showed no signs of any struggle, and as all of the four bullets found in Williams' body had entered from behind, it is supposed Butterfield shot his victim before the latter knew of his presence. Butterfield then apparently placed the revolver in his own mouth and fired, the bullet going through his head.

Williams is survived by wife and two young children living in York.

The church was brilliantly illuminated by the thousands of electric lights as the wedding party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the church organist, Miss Nannie Lippy, of Hanover. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's stepmother, Mrs. Ignatius Small, near Edgemoor. A wedding dinner was also served at the home of the bride's parents, at Irishtown, and a reception was tendered them there during the day.

By Trolley—Balto. to Gettysburg.

The successful financing of a trolley from Baltimore to Gettysburg has been accomplished according to a story in the Baltimore "Sun" of last week.

At the last session of the Maryland legislature a charter was granted to build and operate an electric railway with Reisterstown as its southern terminal, where connection would be made with the United Railway and Electric Company's tracks to a northern terminal on the Pennsylvania State line, six miles from the town of Hanover in that State.

Following the incorporation of the company, which was named the Baltimore and Pennsylvania Railway Company, work of procuring franchises from the Carroll county authorities and officials in control of the several municipalities through which the road was to run was prosecuted vigorously and with a fair degree of success. After this rights of way were secured over practically all of the 20-mile route which the road was to traverse, along which are the towns of Manchester and Hampstead, besides a considerable number of prosperous villages.

There followed some little trouble in financing the construction and equipping of the road, which resulted in considerable delay; this difficulty has just been overcome, as the placing on record in the clerk's office at Towson, of a mortgage deed of trust from the Baltimore and Pennsylvania Railway Company to the Baltimore Trust Company substantiates.

The mortgage is for $600,000, and there will be issued 1,200 bonds of the par value of $500 each, which will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent, and constitute a first lien on all the property of the company. These bonds will not be underwritten or offered for sale to private investors. It is understood, the whole issue being taken by Philadelphia capitalists as an investment. This will bring into the territory mentioned investors who have never before been interested there.

The 20 miles of road referred to is to be known as the first section, and eventually will be connected up with Hanover, and will finally afford electric transportation service through to Gettysburg.

Incidentally, and at the request of the new financial interests which have taken hold of the company the old corporation is in the process of reorganization, all of the former directors having placed their resignations in the hands of the new interests of the company, though it is expected that several of them will become directors of the new corporation.

The actual construction work of the line will be done by the Maryland Construction and Development Company.

Mother's Meeting.

A very interesting mother's meeting was held at the Presbyterian parsonage on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. McMillan read and commented on a Scripture lesson from the Book of Samuel. Asolo was sung by Mrs. Remmel, accompanied by music on piano. All joined in singing chorus.

Mrs. Ott read a very excellent paper on the origin and prevalent use of tobacco and cigarettes. Mrs. Keith followed with a very practical talk on the amusement for small children. A committee was appointed to draw up a resolution to the effect that the Woman's Christian Temperance Union unite with the Parent Teachers' Association in their efforts to prohibit the sale of cigarettes to boys. After a brief closing prayer tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. Taylor.

Thieves Got $30.

The residence of Walter Moore near Orntanna was entered and robbed last Friday. About sundown while all the members of the family were finishing the days work at the barn, thieves entered the house and stole $30.00 in money. Mr. Moore's gold watch was lying near the money but was not disturbed. The identity of the thief or thieves is not known positively but notice was taken of several suspicious characters.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Gettysburg People Know How to Save It.

Many Gettysburg people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Gettysburg citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Charles Hartdagen, 47 Breckenridge Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent kidney medicine and I am just as willing to recommend them to-day as I was two years ago. I was troubled by rheumatism and I had severe pains in my head. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at the Peoples Drug Store and commenced their use. I was cured and since then I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers. I advise anyone afflicted with kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG.

A Sign of Life.

A well known professor who had the reputation of being somewhat on the side of pedantry in regard to the use of the right word in the right place returned home one evening and surprised a burglar at work in his room.

Whipping out a revolver, the latter covered him, saying:
"If you move you're a dead man."
"Allow me to remark, my good man," rejoined the professor, "that your statement is absurd. If I move it is excellent proof that I am alive. You really should consider your words a little before using them."

Past Help.

The man with the old clock under his arm laid it on the jeweler's showcase. "I wish you'd see what is the matter with this," he said.

The jeweler removed the dial, screwed his eyeglass into place and inspected the works of the ancient timepiece. "Nothing is the matter with it now. Its sufferings are over."

"Well, how much do I owe you?" asked the man.
"Nothing," answered the jeweler. "This isn't a professional treatment. This is a coroner's inquest."—Youth's Companion.

Perfectly Calm.

"Now, remember, William," his wife cautioned when he had found his slipper, "that it is very wrong to punish a child in anger. You must be perfectly calm when you administer the chastisement."
"Oh, I'll be calm all right," he said as he started upstairs, gritting his teeth.

"I'll be the calmest man in seven states, but if you attempt to interfere when he begins to yell I'll yell too. Confound it, I'm going to show you who is boss around this place!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Word "Gent."

At one time the word "gent" was a reputable term for general use. A respectable writer in 1504 tells of "a supper to divers gentlemen of the Gray's Inn for the great annuity between them and the Middle Temple gents." The diarist Evelyn speaks of the "noise and tumult occasioned by three or four wild gents in drink." Soon after Queen Victoria's accession "gents" became vulgar. Thackeray speaks of it in 1842 as an "affected diminutive at present much in use among commercial persons."

A Monster Pie.

It is on record that in the reign of George III. of England the Earl of Lonsdale sent his king a pie that weighed 576 pounds. In the preparation of this pie there were used nine geese, two ducks, four fowls, six pigeons, six wild ducks, three teal, two starlings, twelve partridges, fifteen woodcock, two guineas, three snipe, six plovers, three water hens, one wild goose, one curlew, forty yellow hamsters, fifteen sparrows, thirteen chaff finches, two larks, four thrushes, one leg of mutton, one ham, three bushels of flour and thirty pounds of butter.

The Copts of Egypt.

The Copts in Egypt are the book-keepers and scribes; they are also the jewelers and embroiderers. Their ancient tongue has fallen into disuse and is practically a dead language. They now use Arabic, like all the rest of the nation, but the speech survives in their church service, a part of which is still given in the old tongue, though it is said that even the priests themselves do not always understand what they are saying, having merely learned the sentences by heart, so that they can repeat them as a matter of form.

How the Gargle Was Taken.

The Rev. J. A. Sharrock, in "South Indian Missions," relates the following incident illustrating the difficulties of medical missionaries: An old woman came with a relaxed throat to Mrs. Caldwell (wife of Bishop Caldwell), who gave her a gargle in a bottle and told her to go home, throw her head well back, put it in her mouth and keep it there as long as possible. After a day or two she returned, complaining that she was no better and that her neck ached terribly. When asked if she had strictly carried out the instructions, she said: "Yes; I threw my head well back and put the bottle into my mouth and held it there till my neck was almost ready to break!"—London Globe.

No Tea For Him.

The "cup that cheers" had apparently few attractions for Theodore Hook. In his story, "Captain Gray," he wrote when describing the heroine: "Ever since this sweet girl had been of an age to live with her devoted parents she had made this breakfast tea—this trashy stuff about which washerwomen are universally sollicitous; this strange commodity for which the poor, with ungrumbling readiness, pay a duty of 100 per cent for the gratification of giving 6 or 7 shillings a pound for a noxious weed to mix with hot water, in order to render which palatable they pay so much more for sugar and milk."—London Chronicle.

TIME.

Time is a mocker. To two persons differently situated time has either the wings of an eagle or the feet of a snail. To a man in expectancy a day appears a week and a month a year. To one in possession the sun seems no sooner risen than it is set and summer has scarcely arrived before autumn seems ready to appear.

Has the Most Legs.

The little creature which bears the distinction of owning more legs and feet than any other known organized being is the millepede, which literally means "thousand footed." There are several species of this curious worm, all possessing the characteristics of having a many segmented body, each segment provided with a pair of legs. Unlike the centipedes—"hundred footed"—they are perfectly harmless.

Lost Forever.

"Ah, you flatterer!" she said, with a pretty pout.
"Do you really think I am a flatterer?" he asked.
"Of course," she replied, with a bewitching smile.
"Well, since you are not to be fooled I suppose I may as well admit it."
Then she angrily got up and left him.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Babies in India.

In India the baby rides in a basket which hangs from its mother's head or in a hammock hung from her hips. Sometimes the baby's nose is adorned with a nose ring, and in some parts its face is wrapped in a veil like its mother's. The Chinese baby is tied to the back of an elder child. Strangest of all, the mother in Guinea buries her baby up to its waist in sand, and that is the only cradle the baby ever knows.

A Bloodsucking Earthworm.

South Africa is the home of a species of earthworm, a creature closely related to our common angleworm, which is not only a giant among the denizens of the soil, but which is reputed to have a taste for human blood. There are two species of this uncanny wiggler—one of a dark red color and the other almost black. They are larger than one's finger and from three to four inches in length.

Brazilian Coffee.

Brazilians are great coffee drinkers. Numerous cups are drunk each day by the average man and woman. The beverage is made very strong and very sweet. It produces an exhilaration of a more intense and lasting kind than beer. Those addicted to this habit become very restless and scarcely able to sit still or stand still even for a moment.

A Bearded Freak.

One of the earliest of the American bearded freaks was Louis Jasper, who lived in southern Virginia at about the time of the close of the Revolutionary war. His beard was nine and a half feet long and correspondingly thick and heavy. He could take his mustache between his fingers and extend his arms to their full length, and still the ends of the mustache were over a foot beyond his finger tips.

Eighteen Eggs.

"I don't think I'll make a cake by the recipe that woman across the hall gave me. It will be too expensive. The eggs alone will cost entirely too much," said the bride to her husband.
"Gee whizz," said he sympathetically, "that's too bad. How many eggs does it call for anyhow?"
"Eighteen," said she, "the yolks of eight and the whites of ten."—New York Sun.

Facing Powder.

Miss Buchanan was rallying her cousin, an officer, on his courage and rashly said:
"Now, Mr. Harry, do you really mean to tell me you can walk up to the cannon's mouth without fear?"
"Yes," was the prompt reply, "or a Buchanan's either."
And he at once did it!—London Tit-Bits.

A Joke That Failed.

Hoyster had reached home at 2:30 a. m. and found his wife very much awake.
"Now, dear," said the belated man rather thickly, "don't fly up in the air."
"And why, pray?" very deliberately inquired the lady, breathing hard.
"Because you might infringe the (Dix) Wright brothers' patent, my dear," chuckled Hoyster just before she averted.

Valuable Skim milk.

The value of skim milk as a food is not generally appreciated. Alone it is an unsatisfactory article of diet, as it must be taken in large quantities for a sufficient amount of nourishment, and it does not "stay by" very long, but combined with bread or used in cooking it forms a nutritious addition to the diet. Two and one-half quarts of skim milk will furnish nearly the same amount of protein and about the same fuel value as a pound of round steak. Two quarts of skim milk have a greater nutritive value than a quart of oysters.—Designer.

Moist Air Saves Fuel.

Dryness of the air tempts to overheating of the living rooms, for dry air increases the evaporation of perspiration from the skin, thereby increasing the sensation of chilliness. Dry air at 75 degrees will feel about as chilly as moist air at 65 degrees. Stoves, coils and furnaces should always have open vessels of water exposed to evaporation for the purpose of properly moistening the air. This moistening of the air will prove a saving of both coal bills and doctor's bills.—Designer

CONTENT.

The fountain of content must spring up in the mind, and he who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but his own disposition will waste his life in fruitless efforts and multiply the griefs he purposes to remove.—Johnson.

ELECTION RESULTS.

The result of an election in a Democratic county by which the offices were divided with the republicans was not to be expected from a Democratic point of view but sometimes such is the fortune of politics. There are, however, a number of points of view, each with their own explanation.

The Democrats lost more heavily in the stay-at-home voter than the Republicans. In the presidential campaign of 1908 there were 3982 votes for Bryan and 3624 for Taft, making a total of 7606 votes cast. At the present election, the greater number of votes were polled for sheriff, a total of 3964 but that was 760 of the total vote of 1908. The largest Democratic total for any candidate was over 3400, more than 500 short of the Bryan vote, while several Republican candidates received well over 3200 votes showing more than 300 stay-at-homes. The loss of the stay-at-homes to the Democrats was between 100 and 200 votes. The Democrats lost in the cutting.

The Democrats lost in the counting. Many ballots are said to have had few marks on, simply for those the ticket was cut for. If the balance of these tickets had been voted for Democratic candidates instead of allowed to go blank the result would have been different in several instances.

To the advantage of the Republican ticket as against the Democratic. There was no contest for the offices at the primaries among the Republicans, the organization saying that party the trouble. Almost every office was involved in a contest: the Democratic primaries, and the shortness of time between primary and the election gave no opportunity for the healing of primary wounds.

Then the most disreputable methods ere resorted to against the Democrat-ticket. Misrepresentations were made, falsehoods circulated and matters dragged into the campaign that do not belong to politics. Despicable lies were floated, one to the effect that within last three years the present Democratic Board of Commissioners had increased the rate of taxation.

This was absolutely false, the rate was our mills when they came into office and was not increased and the assertion that a raise they made gave $18-00 out of which debt was reduced
$10,000 was absolutely without one particle of truth and the fact remains the absolute truth that with the same rate of taxation the present board reduced the debt nearly $20,000.
Then if rumors are to be believed

There must have been Democrats who were not always controlled by the principles of Democracy. The ticket selected by 3200 Democrats was the expression of the will of the majority and should have been acquiesced in by true Democrats who are controlled by the cardinal principles of the party. The Republicans have been up against a good Democratic organization for years and it is singular that there were Democrats to listen to the Republican talk, circulate for no other reason than to hurt the Democratic organization and Democratic success. There have been insistent rumors of the improper use of money in several the improper use of money in several districts and it is believed that this contributed to the result and to the advantage of Democrats.

The official counting of the urns developed a very unusual situation, resulting in a change in the final votes of the candidates for County Commissioners. George L. Sneerger losing and Samuel Keagy winning. The first figures received on election night and included in our issue of last week largely came from official sources. In some districts messages are sent by phone, in others after citizen must be called upon over the phone before any figures can be obtained and after it is obtained and often it is necessary to have some one go to the polling place and copy them from the posted returns and phone them in. By the methods employed to secure the returns on election night Mr. Sneerger was credited with 135 votes in Newage township, which the official figures made 103 and Mr. Keagy was credited with 70 in Menallen which officially became 171 and a few other changes resulted in election of Keagy.

Erie to Patronize W. M. R. R.

That the Western Maryland railway will be used by a number of other lines, under traffic agreements, is evident from announcements made recently the arrangements to become effective upon the completion of the Annapolisville extension, now under construction. The New York Central railway has already come to an agreement with the Western Maryland and now the New York, Lake Erie and Western, commonly called the Erie

The agreement with the New York central railway will more than double the traffic of the Western Maryland, and now that the patronage of the Erie will also be received, it is more than likely that the Western Maryland will become one of the best operating lines in the country within the next year or so. The Erie will ship large portion of its export tonnage

JUST RECEIVED—the Latest Improved Carpet Sweeper.

Why Not Get the Best When You Buy a Carpet Sweeper

The National Roller Bearing Carpet Sweeper costs no more than other carpet sweepers, but we recommend it to our customers for several reasons. Some of the reasons are:

- The roller bearings make it exceptionally easy to run.
- The special anti-tipping device makes it "spill-proof."
- The broom action and the genuine Hankow Chinese bristles make it gather up every speck, scrap, string or raveling.
- The patented brush release enables you to remove and replace the brush with a touch of your finger.

The traffic to be handled by the Western Maryland will be divided between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

Work on the extension is moving rapidly and contractors say it will be completed shortly after the first of the new year. The building of the line has been in progress since shortly after the reorganization of the Western Maryland. It will be a big feeder and make that road a strong competitor to the Baltimore & Ohio.

THE HOFFMAN ORPHANAGE

THE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING HAS BEEN STARTED

An Appeal Has been Sent Out for Help to Carry Out Orphanage Plans.

An appeal has been sent out to all the Reformed churches for money for carrying out the proposed plans of the Hoffman Orphanage, located in Mt. Joy township and the work will be carried along just as fast as conditions and money will permit.

Ground has been broken and work started on the erection of the second group of 10 buildings which will comprise the Hoffman Orphanage, a project of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church. The work now under way is on the administration building, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Heib of York. The structure will be completed next July and will cost when finished $3,150. The first building, a cottage for the use of those boys and girls who are now in the orphanage, was dedicated during the past summer.

The Hoffman Orphanage, when all of the buildings have been completed, will be the best equipped institution of its kind in this section of Pennsylvania. The entire group of buildings will be erected at a cost which will probably exceed $80,000 and a sum equally as great will likely be spent in equipping the structures and the surrounding grounds. The work is under the supervision of the Potomac Synod and is being finished as rapidly as possible by means of contributions and donations. All of the churches and many individuals in the synod have contributed toward the project.

The orphanage idea originated with George W. Hoffman and his wife, when some years ago they donated, as told at the time in our columns, their two farms of 200 acres, together with $5,000 to the synod. The former as a site for an orphanage and the latter as a working basis for its improvement and up-keep.

Soon after the donation of the farm and the money, the synod took the first step toward building the orphanage. Miller I. Kast of Harrisburg, was employed as architect to prepare plans for the institution. The colony idea was conceived by Mr. Kast and it met with the approval of Mrs. Hoffman, who is still living, and members of the synod as well. It is proposed to have 10 buildings built in the form of an ellipse. These structures stretching out either way from the administration building, and facing toward an oval court, in which will be gardens, will each be the home of 25 or 30 orphans. Each cottage will be a home or orphanage in itself, but all will come under the supervision of the superintendent, who will use the administration building as his headquarters. In each building there will be a master or matron, as the case may be, and in this way the home life and family idea will be preserved. It is intended to have the orphans live there in their own colony or village but each to have his or her home separately.

The first of the cottages has been built and is now being tenanted by 15 boys and girls, under the direction of the Rev. J. Stewart Hartman, who was chosen by the synod as superintendent of the institution. Other cottages will be added as they are required. When the Heib building, or administration structure, is completed it will be occupied by the Rev. Mr. Hartman and his family, and the other cottage will then be given into the charge of a master. Just as soon as the money is obtained and other arrangements made, work will be started on the other cottages and they will be finished as rapidly as possible.

It is the aim of the Hoffman Orphanage to afford to orphan children those comforts and environments of home life which are otherwise missed by such children. Each cottage will look out upon a beautiful garden and each building will be but a few hundred feet from another of similar architecture and design. When a child enters the institution, be it boy or girl, he will be assigned to one or the other of the buildings. There the child will come under the supervision of the person who is in charge of that building. The boys will be required to attend school a part of each day and the remainder of the time devoted to the learning of some useful trade. Agricultural pursuits will be encouraged and there will be ample opportunity for all of the boys to learn farming.

The girls will be instructed in the arts of domestic science. They will be taught to cook and keep house. They will be shown how to care for a home just as they probably would wish to do if the home were their own. In this way the children will grow up handy and knowing in the things which in after life they will find most useful. There will be ample time and opportunity for play, also.

Teachers' Institute Next Week.

Teachers' Institute seems to come quick this year, before November Court is over and this is perhaps due to the fact that it is two weeks earlier than last year. Thanksgiving week was the week in which it was held for many years. There are many reasons why it seemed desirable to get away from this week. Last year the week before has been fixed for the Institute. The sessions, both day and night, will be held in Brus Chapel as was done last year.

There will be some new things about the Institute this year, as provisions of new School Code apply. Teachers will be entitled to receive $3 a day for attendance and are fined $3 a day for non attendance without a sufficient excuse. Each teacher will be asked to keep a record of his or her attendance, marking number of minutes tardy and certify over their signature that this record is correct. Teachers and the public are asked to observe certain hours of admission to the day sessions of Institute. It would be very distracting to Mrs. Chapel to have the audience come and go as was done in the Court House. There it could be done quietly without disturbing anyone. In the chapel a whole row in front

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they multiply, causing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what causes a more rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

We have had experience with many remedies for skin trouble but have never seen such remarkable cures as those from D. D. D. Prescription. It gives relief from the very first application.

We are so confident that D. D. D. will reach your case that it will cost you nothing if the very first full size bottle fails to make good every claim.

If you have skin trouble of any kind, we certainly advise you to drop D. D. D. and investigate the merits of D. D. D. anyway. We know that D. D. D. will help you.

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a home.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel point," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-acting flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

Display everywhere. Ask yours to show you the Perfection Heater and its many features. For descriptive circular to any agency of The Atlantic Refining Company (Incorporated)

AUTOMATIC LAW ENFORCER

An Ingenious Apparatus for the Motorist Who Desires Safety.

Vice-Consul H. M. Byington, at Bristol, reports as follows concerning a new British apparatus which controls the speed of motor cars:

"According to the published description of a practical trial, the device automatically removes the clutch when the speed of the car slightly exceeds the arranged limit and when necessary the brake is also automatically applied until the rate is reduced just below the limit. The brake is then quickly but gently removed and the clutch again put in. A semaphore is automatically raised to warn the driver when he is approaching the maximum. The mechanism, which fits in a compact aluminum box and works in oil, takes very little space. It is put in action or out of gear in an instant, and there is no need to stop or slow down the car while this is being done. The apparatus can be locked up so that the driver of a car cannot exceed the speed desired by the owner.

"Every effort was made on the trial to get the car to exceed the limit, which was set for 16 miles an hour. On coming to a fairly steep hill the engine was allowed full power and the car instantly started to gain speed. But as soon as the limit was reached the brakes were applied strenuously, as if by magic (though no sudden jar was experienced), and the engine merely 'raced' without the slightest effect on the car, the speed being maintained at the 16-mile rate throughout."

ELY'S CREAM BALM has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine chest among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or snuffling. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which might, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

Highest Quality Brings Big Results!Big Results Bring Big Business!

Business increased fourfold within the last year just because American Farmers find that the U. S. Preparation possesses the qualities that give them the results they want.

That American Farmers appreciate a good article is fully demonstrated by the rapidly increasing demand for the products of the UNITED STATES FOOD CO., Pleasant City, Ohio.

Their business has increased more than fourfold within the last year. It certainly is a record to be proud of; and the thing about it which pleases the company most is, it is the strongest kind of an acknowledgment by the American Farmers of the company's efforts to give them the highest quality of goods that can be produced.

Their U. S. STOCK FOOD TONIC is a wonderful preparation for growing and conditioning live stock. It is equally good for horses, colts, cattle, calves, sheep, hogs and pigs. Where farmers feed it regularly to their young animals, and otherwise give them proper care, they don't know what it is to have stunted colts, calves or pigs, and their loss from disease is reduced to minimum. Their U. S. POULTRY FOOD TONIC has become noted for its value to the poultry raiser. It not only causes healthy, vigorous fowls, but in many cases it has been known to double the egg production. With such preparations the marvelous growth of this Company's business is not a surprise.

BUYING A PLACEThe Price Went Very High, Then Dropped

By LUCY K. WYNKOOP

A young man pulling a boat on a New England lake rested on his oars before a plank landing, on which stood a young woman evidently waiting for something.

"Beg pardon," he said to her, "is there a road behind those houses up there leading down to the railroad station at Parkville?"

"Yes, there is," was the reply. The young man gaped about him as though interested in the lay of the land. He was really interested in the girl, who was quite comely. He was trying to think of some other question to ask her in order to keep up a conversation.

"Can you tell me who occupies that white house up on that crest?" he asked.

"Dr. Egerton."

There was another pause. The replies were so exactly to the point that they did not invite any further questioning. However, the young man was not to be dropped.

"I'm looking for a place like that on this lake," he said. "I wonder if it could be bought."

"I suppose there's hardly a piece of property in the world that cannot be bought if the purchaser is willing to give a large enough price."

"I've looked over all these New England lakes with a view to buying a summer residence, and I like this bit of water better than any of them. My mother and sister won't go to hotels, and I don't like them myself. We wish a place where we can go as soon as spring opens and stay till late in the autumn."

The young lady evinced no interest in the young man's family plans and made no reply.

"That place up there would suit us exactly," he continued. "I would like to spend all the rest of my summers there. The view must be fine."

"There would be no harm in your trying to buy it," said the girl. "You might write a note to the owner asking if any sum you would be prepared to pay would be accepted."

"Thank you very much for the suggestion."

At that moment there were sounds of motorboat engine explosions, and a launch was seen making for the landing. It soon pulled up there under care of a single boatman. The young lady got aboard and, without so much as a look at the oarsman, was carried away. "Mighty fine looking girl," he said to himself—"well but plainly dressed and with an air of being somebody. I wonder who she is."

Jack Aborn was an enormously wealthy young man, having inherited the bulk of his father's property, and was accustomed to having anything money could buy that he desired. There was something unique in the Egerton place that struck his fancy. He couldn't very well build such a place. To begin with, he couldn't get the site; then it would require half a century to grow the trees. Besides, there was an old fashioned look about the whole place that could not be imitated. As the young lady had said, there would be no harm in trying to buy it, and he resolved to drop the owner a note asking if he would consider an offer.

He did so and received a reply written in a woman's hand as follows: Dr. Egerton desires me to acknowledge the receipt of your note asking if an offer for this place will be considered and to say that it has been in the Egerton family so many years that there is at present no intention on the part of the owner to sell it. However, the doctor would like to know what it would bring. Yours truly, SARAH H. MCCARTHY, Secretary.

Aborn was sufficiently versed in business methods to waste no further time in correspondence; he called upon Dr. Egerton for a conference. He was received by Miss McCarthy, a middle aged lady, who told him that the doctor had gone to the city, but that she (the secretary) had charge of such business matters as required attention in the doctor's absence and had power to act. Aborn asked what the property would bring if offered openly for sale, and Miss McCarthy said she thought it would easily sell for $30,000. Whereupon Aborn made an offer of $10,000 for it. The secretary said that she would transmit the offer to her principal and would write him.

In due time a note came to Aborn stating briefly that his offer would not be accepted. He was quite ready to raise it, but did not like dealing through a third party. He called again on the doctor, but was again disappointed at not seeing him. The doctor was at home, but very busy. Aborn left word with the secretary that he would raise his bid to $20,000.

A reply to this came to him that astonished him. It was this:

Dr. Egerton desires me to inform Mr. Aborn that, inquiries having been made as to his financial standing and his ability to pay for any purchase he might make, the response are perfectly satisfactory. But the doctor has also been informed that Mr. Aborn is one of those young men who, having inherited large means, think they can acquire anything they fancy. Surely there is no property without a price, but the price on the Egerton place is in proportion to Mr.

Aborn's enormous fortune. It is enormously high. Yours truly,

SARAH H. MCCARTHY.

Aborn was not only astonished at this reply; he was mad. At first he determined to drop the matter in contemptuous silence, but he was too irritated to do this. Besides, he was curious to discover what sort of man this doctor was who would go so far out of his way to insult a man whose only fault was a desire to possess the Egerton homestead. He determined to make one more effort to see him. He called, but again was obliged to be content with seeing the secretary, the doctor having again gone to the city on important business.

"Is this doctor," he asked in an irritated tone, "a regularly educated physician or a quack?"

"Dr. Egerton is something higher than even a regularly educated physician. The doctor's title is doctor of philosophy."

"What, then, does he do for a living?"

"The doctor is a sociologist."

"Oh, I see; has something to do with the running of the town charities?"

"City charities principally."

"I know a man who has such a position, but he doesn't get much of a salary."

To this there was no response.

"Well," continued Aborn, "I wish you would tell this sociologist that he'd better cut out his degree till he has learned to treat his fellow men with proper civility. I had a perfect right to inquire whether he would sell his place and was led to believe that an offer would be acceptable even if not accepted. Then I receive an—"

"You have not yet offered enough. The doctor holds the property far above its intrinsic worth on account of its having been so long in the family."

Aborn, being angry, thought how nice it would be to offer a price this insulting sociologist could not afford to decline.

"Very well," he said, "tell him I'll give him $100,000 for it. When will he be at home?"

"Tomorrow."

"I'll call for the reply."

Aborn looked over the premises as he went away and determined to give double the price offered if necessary, buy adjoining tracts and make the place a paradise. Though he did not know it, all this fever to possess the place was born of his desire to have his own way in everything and to take revenge for having been told the truth.

The next morning Aborn was rowing on the lake when he met the girl he had seen on the landing. She was in a canoe.

"Beg pardon," he said, "but—"

The girl stopped paddling and waited.

"Perhaps you will remember suggesting that I write the owner of the white house up there asking if he would like to sell the place?"

"Well?"

"What kind of a man is he anyway?"

"Dr. Egerton is a very level headed person. Anything the doctor tells you has weight to it."

"I'm! He's no gentleman."

"The doctor's very plain spoken."

"I should think he is."

"I hope my suggestion hasn't led to anything disagreeable."

"Oh, the suggestion was very sensible as well as very kind."

"Is the place for sale?"

"I suppose it is. But for a man who gets probably $75 a month for running the poor he's mighty independent."

The girl made no reply to this. Indeed, she indicated that the dialogue didn't interest her by putting her paddle in the water. Aborn dipped his oars, and they pulled apart.

During the afternoon Aborn called at Dr. Egerton's to learn if $100,000 would buy a place worth not over a third of that amount. He had given up any expectation of seeing the doctor. Indeed, he rather thought it better he should not. He feared he would be tempted to punch the man's head. He was standing in the drawing room looking out through a window on the lake when, hearing a rustle of woman's clothing behind him, he turned, expecting to see the secretary. What was his amazement to see the girl he had met first on the landing and the same morning in a canoe. Her eyes were bubbling with mischief.

"W-w-hat does this mean?" he stammered.

"You called to see Dr. Egerton, did you not?"

"Yes."

"I am Dr. Egerton."

"You?"

"Yes, I am Cornelia Egerton, Ph. D."

"I see."

It was scarcely necessary for him to add anything to these two simple words, for it was evident that his eyes had been opened.

"Very stupid of me, wasn't it?"

"Be seated. I owe you an apology. The temptation was too strong for me."

"How about that information you got about me?"

"Made out of whole cloth."

"You secretary?"

"My aunt."

"She said something about your running a city charity bureau."

"Heaven has blessed me with great wealth. I consider myself simply as its dispenser. In order to dispense it intelligently I studied sociology."

"Heaven has also given me great wealth, but it hasn't occurred to me to give it away till after my death, when I shall have no use for it."

"Better adopt my plan."

"Do you really own this house?"

"Yes, but I own another I like better. You may have this one for what I consider it worth—$20,000."

"Done!"

A year later the doctor went with the house.

He has a message. The subject of his discourse, 'Our Country, Its Dangers and Possibilities,' allowed of a wide scope and he took advantage of it." The News and Observer, Chicago.
